The following is from "Colonial Surry" by Boddie:

Surry was also invaded in the War of 1812. Col. William Allen was in charge of the County Militia and he wrote the Governor on July 1, 1813 as follows: "The day I wrote you from Cabin Point by mail, June 29th, I ordered my regiment to convene at Surry Court House the next day. Have at this time all the men that have arms on duty, to prevent, if possible, the British from committing depredations on the shores. Today I went down to Four Mile Tree, where I understood the British had landed from some of their barges; unfortunately they had returned about half an hour before I got there with two companies of Infantry. They are destroying all the stock and sheep and cattle they can find and the furniture in the houses. They took from Four Mile Tree and Mt. Pleasant this morning 26 head of sheep and the fowls, destroyed the furniture at Four Mile Tree and Mt. Pleasant. They were also at Mr. J. D. Edwards.
